A MESSAGE FROM THE OWNER

Irasshaimase!!* Welcome to Samurai Tours!!

We invite you to spend some time in this section of our web site to learn more about us and who we are.

Japan has something for everyone, whatever your interests. Tranquil mountain top temples and shrines, large neon-lit cities buzzing with an energy that will sweep you away, soothing hot spring baths, idyllic gardens, speeding bullet trains, soaring mountain peaks, welcoming, friendly, helpful people, and of course, the fantastic food.

As a Japan travel specialist we offer a wide range of Japan travel services. You can travel with the peace of mind knowing that you'll have the full back-up from our English-speaking office staff at our fully-licensed and bonded travel agency in Japan (Kyoto Prefecture Travel Agency License ID #3-576) to make sure every aspect of your trip goes according to plan. Drawing on the meaning of Samurai, which is "to serve", we emphasize the honor of serving you. Let us show you our side of Japan!!

Mike Roberts,
Owner, Samurai Tours

**Irasshaimase* means Welcome. Customers entering stores, restaurants or other places of business all over Japan are met with enthusiastic cries of Irasshaimase!!

OUR PHILOSOPHY

"We recognize travel enlightens and promotes tolerance. Our mission is to offer well-balanced, educational, culturally-broadening, and most importantly, fun tours that inspire and inform."

The Samurai Tours Mission Statement

Our Philosophy

Our goal is to allow our tour members to travel as "temporary Japanese" to break down as many barriers to the lifestyle, customs and traditions as possible to allow the maximum cultural exposure and experience.

- On our escorted tours, we prefer to use traditional, Japanese-style ryokans for lodging. These unique Japanese accommodations provide a unique Japanese experience. Whenever possible, we prefer to stay in smaller, more intimate family-run ryokans that are off-limits to larger groups. Many of the ryokans we stay in have as few as 10 to 15 rooms and are located on quiet, narrow side streets. Their owners take tremendous pride in their facilities, service and cuisine. Whenever we do use hotels, we prefer to use smaller, local hotels primarily used by the Japanese that blend in with the surrounding neighborhood, rather than the larger chain hotels catering to western tourists. We carefully select ryokans and hotels in the middle of the sights and culture that are within walking distance of what you came to see. This saves you time and money, and gives you lots of independence. All of the ryokans and hotels, with the exception of the Buddhist temple on Koya-san, have en-suite bathrooms. The bathrooms will include a bath/shower combination, sink and toilet, while the Buddhist temple has shared bath and toilet facilities “down the hall.”
- We use only public transportation (with the exception of our new Rail and Drive tours where we use a convenient combination of public transportation and 8-seat vans chartered for the tour group). We use the same trains, subways, buses, taxis and ferries that millions of Japanese use every day. By traveling this way, you will get much closer to the people and culture you traveled thousands of miles to discover rather than seeing Japan through the window of a tour bus. And no trip to Japan is complete without at least one ride on the Shinkansens (bullet trains).
- We prefer to eat in smaller, more intimate restaurants. There are probably more restaurants per capita in Japan than anywhere else in the world. Because of space limitations in Japan, many of these restaurants only have a small counter and/or a couple of tables that are (again) off-limits to larger groups.
- We feel food is an important part of traveling. One of the biggest misconceptions of Japan is that the Japanese only eat sushi. Nothing could be further from the truth. Japanese food is very diverse, and varies region-by-region. We introduce our tour members to the many different types of foods, and we always try to include at least one Kaiseki-style dinner on each tour. Known as the gourmet-style cooking in Japan, Kaiseki dinners are another essential Japanese experience that cannot be missed.
- No one likes to pack and unpack every day. Our tour itineraries minimize the number of “one-night stands.” By staying multiple nights at one location, you become more familiar and comfortable with a destination, and are better-rested, and more energized. An appropriate amount of free time is built into the itineraries for you to follow your own curiosity and interests. We do also offer optional tours during your free time on many of our tours should you prefer to join. We also design our tours with the assumption that you will return to Japan someday. This means we don't try to see everything, necessitating hurrying from sight-to-sight, wearing everyone out. Our intent is to make our tours “quality” over “quantity.”
- We include many well-balanced cultural extras in our escorted tours such as tea ceremonies, calligraphy lessons, geisha walking tours and meeting a Maiko, an apprentice geisha.
- Our enthusiastic and knowledgeable Samurai Tours and local Japanese tour guides are well versed in Japanese culture, history, art and architecture and will bring Japan alive with their insights.

Our Values

Culture: Our tours are tailored to break down as many barriers to the lifestyle, customs and traditions as possible to allow the maximum cultural exposure and experience.

Enjoyment: We strive to create a fun, informative and enthusiastic tour-environment our tour members look forward to participating in each day.

Quality: We are committed to continuously and proactively improving the quality of our services by constantly enhancing existing tours and developing new tours.

Value: We offer tours with the best combination of quality and price.

Honesty and Integrity: All business is conducted in a forthright and trustworthy manner, and all business practices will be consistent with our Mission and Values.

WHY CHOOSE SAMURAI TOURS?

- 1 We specialize in Japan
Samurai Tours only provides tours to Japan, allowing us to focus on our itineraries in order to provide a quality tour experience.
- 2 Small, Friendly Groups
On our escorted tour Packages, our groups are never bigger (and often smaller) than 16 travelers. Small groups allow us to stay in memorable, centrally located, family-run lodging and to sightsee and dine where larger groups can only dream of going. “Traveling small” also gives our groups a congenial atmosphere. Because of the way we organize our tours, and the way we travel, we tend to attract friendlier, more flexible and fun-loving people for our tours. If you are interested in learning about Japan, its culture, people and want to have a great time, you will fit right in.
- 3 Great Guides
The quality of your tour guides can make or break your travel experience. You want a guide who is 100% focused on bringing you the best of Japan. The common way for a tour company to have a low “sticker price” is to pay guides little or nothing, and encourage them to pull in shopping kickbacks as personal income. We pay our guides full salaries, and prohibit them from accepting kickbacks. This means your guide is motivated to give you the best travel experience possible – not earn extra income through shopping. We also work with English-speaking Japanese guides where indicated in the itinerary detail. We have found this is important because it will give you an outlook on Japan from a Japanese point-of-view and allows you to meet one-on-one with a local and ask questions you may not be able to ask someone you just met on the street. (We have also found that many of our tour participants have struck-up friendships with our local guides, and many of them keep in touch on a regular basis.)
- 4 Value.
There is more to “price” than meets the eye. Our tours include:
More Sightseeing: Prices include all group sightseeing and activities listed in detail with every tour description.

More Meals: Experiencing Japan’s great cooking is every bit as important as sightseeing, so all breakfasts and approximately half of your lunches and dinners are included. It’s a sensible balance that satisfies your dining expectations, protects your budget, yet gives you the freedom to discover plenty of other edible delights on your own.

Peace of Mind: With our included tour cancellation/interruption protection coverage, your travel investment is protected.
- 5 Customer Service
Travelers who have been to Japan can tell you that customer service is very important in Japan. Everybody comes home with their own personal stories about someone in Japan who went way out of their way to be helpful. In order to make our tours more “Japanese,” all of the employees and guides at Samurai Tours are committed to going the extra distance to make your Japan experience more enjoyable.

6*Guaranteed Prices

The tour price listed on our website and in our tour catalog is exactly what you'll pay, even if inflation or a drop in the dollar-to-yen exchange rate increases operating costs. This may sound like common sense, but many tour companies reserve the right to increase your final payment (in fine print, of course). Samurai Tours has never done this, and we never will. Period.

7*We Have Our Own Travel Agency in Japan

Most foreign tour operators operating tours in Japan subcontract with Japanese travel agencies. Because we have our own travel agency (Kyoto-fu Chijitoroku Ryokogyo 3-576/Japanese Travel Agency License: Kyoto Prefecture #3-576) it allows us to be more adaptable to the ever-changing travel environment in Japan and gives us better quality control. Because of our local presence, we are able to adapt and adjust to the ever-changing travel environment in Japan. And other Japanese travel agencies tend to design tours in the manner that the Japanese prefer tours, which means whirlwind, non-stop tours that never allow enough time anywhere to see anything.

Located in the Japanese Alps near Nagano (home of the 1998 Winter Olympics) lies the village of Hakuba. With an expansive terrain and 11 ski areas, beginner and experienced skiers alike will enjoy Hakuba's slopes and sights.

Hakuba is not only known for its quality snow and amazing skiing, but also for its various attractions. If you choose to spend a day foregoing the slopes, Hakuba offers varying activities from back country tours to snowshoeing, hot springs, and local touring options.

Hakuba is possibly the most friendly resort for foreigners. They work hard to cater to English speakers, while also providing a Japanese cultural experience.

Because of its beautiful terrain and quality snow, Shiga Kogen was chosen to host quite a few Olympic events at the 1998 Nagano Winter Olympics. As the second highest ski resort in Japan, the mountain boasts 19 different ski resorts that are intertwined and connected through their comprehensive lift system. A single lift ticket gives the skier access to all 52 lifts in the resort.

Shiga Kogen is the largest ski resort in Japan, and one of the largest in the world. After spending time skiing the expansive slopes, you can relax your muscles in the natural onsens. It has over seven natural hot spring sources which feed into many of the local hotels and bath facilities located within the hotels across the resort.

With its accessibility to Nagano, the snow monkey park and other outdoor attractions, Shiga Kogen is a destination not to be missed.

Zao Onsen is a small hot spring village located in the Tohoku region near Yamagata. It has become famous for its great skiing, plush powder, and the “snow monsters” that form on the trees around the village giving the ski area an other-world experience. Zao Ski Resort offers over thirty lifts, gondolas and ropeways. With a variety of different courses, Zao Ski Resort is perfect for beginners and intermediates alike.

After a long day on the slopes, Zao is a perfect place to rest and enjoy Japan’s famous hot springs. These hot springs are known for the strong acidic sulfur springs that are said to help with rejuvenating and strengthening the skin and blood vessels.
